May 22nd, 2018: A
Conversation with Facebook
Co-Founder Chris Hughes

*Work-Bench and First Republic
Bank*

Chris Hughes was Mark Zuckerberg's roommate at Harvard, and a key collaborator building Facebook in its early years. In telling the story of FB's meteoric rise and his other key experiences in business, politics, and with charitable organizations, Hughes relates his insights as to how luck plays a disproportionately influential role in today's economy. He argues that some of the same forces that made Facebook possible have made it harder for everyone else in America

- We are the official Harvard Alumni Group for technology. We hope to further the development of technology through encouraging innovation, providing Harvard alumni technologists with resources and networks, and promoting technological activity throughout the Harvard community. We are currently active in New York City & Boston and will be growing chapters in other cities. Started in 2013.
